COMMENCEMENT OF THE TERM.

THE ANNUAL COURSE OF LECTURES, for the Session of 1850-51, will commence on Monday the 4th of November, and continue sixteen weeks.

It is very desirable that every student should be present on the first day of the Session, that he may have the instructions in each department in its completeness and natural order; there being but one general introduction, which will be given on the first day of the course.

The College Clinique and the Dissecting Rooms will be opened on the second Monday of October, and will be regularly attended from that time to the end of the course.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION.

The following are the requisitions for the degree of Doctor of Medicine, viz.:

1st. The candidate must be twenty-one years of age, and give satisfactory evidence of possessing a good moral character.

2d. He must have pursued the study of medicine three years, and attended, at least, two courses of lectures, the last of which must be in this institution. Four years of regular and continuous practice will be considered equivalent to one course of lectures.

3d. He must have taken the Dissecting Ticket, and attended to the practical study of anatomy during, at least, one course of lectures, and also attended all the means of clinical instruction afforded by the school.

4th. He must notify the Secretary of the Faculty of his intention to become a candidate, and deliver to him a thesis on some medical subject, written by himself, on or before the 1st of February, and at the same time deposit the graduation fee, which, together with the thesis, will be returned to him in case of withdrawal or rejection.

5th. Every candidate must undergo a full and satisfactory examination on all the branches taught in the College.

6th. Graduates of other respectable schools of medicine will be entitled to an ad eundem degree, by passing a satisfactory examination, paying the graduation fee, and giving evidence of good moral and social character.

FEES.

Tickets of seven Chairs, each $5,	$35 00
Dissecting Ticket,	5 00
Graduation Fee,	20 00
The Matriculation Ticket, and the Tickets for Clinical and Hospital Instruction, are free.
Good board, with room, fuel, lights, and attendance, can be obtained in Chicago, at from $2 to $2 25 per week.

Students will find it to their advantage to supply themselves with some good text-book, on the several branches taught in the College; and on arriving in the city, all needful directions can be obtained by calling at the office of the Secretary, No. 65 Lake-street.

Any further information in reference to the College, may be obtained by addressing

N. S. DAVIS, M.D.,

Secretary of the Faculty,

CHICAGO, ILL.

TO THE PROFESSION.

In issuing this, their Eighth Annual Circular and Catalogue, the Trustees and Faculty of the Rush Medical College take pleasure in announcing to their friends, the steady and continued prosperity of the institution.

This prosperity consists, not only in a gratifying increase in the numbers of those who seek its advantages and honors, but also in the rapid increase of all those facilities requisite for the most thorough instruction in all the departments of medical science and practice. Each Professor is amply supplied with all the means necessary for illustrating and rendering practical the instructions in his own department, and the materiel for dissection is as abundant and cheap as could be desired. The anatomical rooms are convenient, and under the immediate care of the demonstrator, whose whole time is devoted to the subject of Practical Anatomy during the course, subject always to the supervision of the Professor of Anatomy.

The United States Marine Hospital, located only a short distance from the College, is rapidly approaching completion, and is intended to be open for the reception of patients early in the autumn. The Illinois General Hospital of the Lakes, which was chartered by the Legislature at its recent extra session, has also been organized, with a Lying-in department attached. The last-named institution, with the usual College Clinique, in the midst of a city population of more than 25,000, will afford all desirable facilities for the most thorough practical instruction both in Medicine and Surgery. And the Clinical Lectures of Professor Davis, in connection with those on Pathology, will embrace a complete course on Clinical Practice, as seen at the bedside of the patient, paying particular attention to those forms of disease most prevalent in the western country.

Several years' experience and personal observation have satisfied the Faculty, that the greatest obstacle in the way of elevating the character of the profession, by inducing students to qualify themselves more thoroughly before entering upon the responsible duties of practice, is, the want of pecuniary means to meet the usual expenses of two or three full courses of lectures, without encumbering themselves with debts requiring years to discharge. To remove this obstacle, and thereby enable all who will practice medicine to properly qualify themselves by an attendance on a greater number of courses of lectures; and, to get rid of the many evils attached to the system of credit which has been too long practised by the medical schools of the North-west, the faculty have reduced the fees for a full course to the very moderate sum of $35 in cash. In furtherance of the same object, the Trustees have abolished the fee for matriculation altogether.

It seems to us that the correctness of the principle on which the foregoing action is founded, is too obvious to need a single argument. What we need is, not a greater number of students or practitioners, but we want to induce a greater number of those we do have to qualify themselves more thoroughly. This can only be done by placing a greater amount of medical instruction within their reach. Seeing thus clearly what we deem to be the highest interest of the profession, and our own duty as connected therewith, we have not hesitated to take the lead in action, relying confidently on the approbation of the profession in return.

No credit will be given for lecture fees, unless by special agreement with the Secretary of the Faculty.

Our own Alumni, and the graduates of other respectable schools of medicine throughout the country, will be permitted to attend the whole or any part of the courses of lectures, by calling on the Secretary and procuring the matriculation ticket, which is free of charge.
